

ColoursBlack

Cold black sorrow played with me
Painted this red sky so sincerely
Blue bright morning fade to grey
I'll guess that's the reason I'll choose to stay

Everyone who stands up on that shore
Wondering about the tension and the meaning of the core
Everyone will shine through that blistering light
Burning in these colours. at the end. of the night

Clear green eyes through purple rain
I'll guess it will turn my love in vain
Yellow sundown melts my head
Preaches and pray for another day

Everyone who stands up on that shore
Wondering about the tension and the meaning of the core
Everyone will shine like a diamond in that blistering light
Burning through these colours. at the end. of the night

I Will Scream I will Dream
All the way. all the way

Swirling white noise leads the way through one whisper of silence while we fade away Through cold black sorrows through shades of grey the beginning of a new life as we start to play